Manipulate this end of the movement vector

but not this end!

Try to make the rectangle land here

A straight line with one end circled defines the movement vector.

It defines the direction and the distance of the movement (from the initial location of the object).